

A scatter plot on a white background with a black border. It contains two sets of data points: blue and green. The blue points are more numerous and are concentrated in the lower half of the plot, forming a horizontal band. The green points are fewer and are more scattered, with a higher concentration in the upper half of the plot. There is some overlap between the two groups in the center of the plot.

